BASIC PRINCIPLES FOR THE RATIONAL USE OF THE FOREST NATURAL RESOURCE

Article 2

1. The Minister is responsible for forest management, which is aimed at the rational use of the forest itself as a regenerating natural resource in the sense that:
 - a. the stabilising influence of the forest on the natural environment, in particular on the soil, water, flora and fauna, is not affected and that, in this way, the fundamental natural requirements for the preservation of the vitality of Suriname will be secured;
 - b. the advantages of forest exploitation will be optimal from a national vantage-point, in particular in view of the desired diversification of industry, the enhancement of employment and the distribution of economic activity throughout the country.
2. The management referred to in paragraph 1 extends over all forested areas in Suriname.
3. The management mentioned under paragraph 1 should provide for planning covering all forested areas and touching on all aspects, within the framework of which the necessary measures shall be taken for the protection, regeneration and improvement of the forest, as well as the efficient supervision of the exploitation of the forest and the wood-processing industry.

Article 3

The Minister shall furthermore be responsible for the rational use of the forest in accordance with the basic principles mentioned in article 2 and for the necessary means for, among other things:

- a. the provision of the efficient organisation of the institution(s) responsible for forest management;
- b. the carrying out of forest inventory and research;

- c. the promotion of education, training and information in the fields of forestry and nature preservation;
- d. the carrying out of wood technology and related market research.

CHAPTER III

CLASSIFICATION OF THE FOREST ACCORDING TO DESIGNATION

Article 4

The forest can be classified into permanent forest, conversion forest, and forest to be preserved temporarily.

Article 5

- 1. Areas may be designated as permanent forest by State Decree. In any event these areas will include those areas which are or will be re-forested or where forest improvement measures are or will be taken.
- 2. In the designation of permanent forest, a distinction may be made between permanent production forest, protected forest, and special protected forest.
- 3. The designations referred to in the above paragraphs may not be contrary to any currently valid or future national or regional development programme.
- 4. In designating any woodland as permanent forest, the boundaries of the designated area are to be described and drawn onto the map which accompanies the designation.
- 5. No real or personal rights arising by virtue of the "Decree on the Issue of State Land" may be established over permanent forest and forest to be temporarily maintained.
- 6. Under or in virtue of the state decree referred to in paragraph 1, further regulations may be prescribed. In so far as this concerns the designation of protected forest or special protected forest, these further regulations may restrict or exclude the gathering of wood or any other human activity.

Article 6

- 1. The Minister shall publish an intention to designate an area as permanent forest. Within six weeks after the publication, anyone may declare or file protest against the designation through the District Commissioner within whose jurisdiction this area is, or parts thereof are, situated.
- 2. The protests shall be examined by an advisory committee, consisting of a chairman to be appointed by the Minister, as well as the Head, and the Head of the State Land Department, or their substitutes. This committee shall advise the Minister within six weeks after receipt of the protest. At the committee's request the Minister may allow a single extension of the time period.
- 3. Upon receipt of the advice, the Minister shall inform the interested party in writing of his decision with respect to the objections made, stating the reasons, and shall send a copy thereof to the District Commissioner concerned.

Article 7

- 1. The Minister shall designate the areas which are to serve as conversion forest. Such designation may not be contrary to any valid national or regional development programme.

2. With respect to the designation referred to in the preceding paragraph of this article, the provisions under article 6 paragraphs 1 and 2 shall correspondingly be applicable.
3. All government institutions are obliged to notify the Minister, stating the objective, of their intention to use a conversion forest for non-forestry purposes, of the date on which they wish to commence their activities, and to furnish data as required to ensure the gathering of marketable timber referred to in the first paragraph of this article.

Article 8

Deforestation or development of a forest to be temporarily maintained, even if it forms part of a communal forest, is prohibited.

CHAPTER IV

FOREST MANAGEMENT

Article 9

1. To realize a rational use of the forest as a natural resource, the Minister will establish a forest-inventory programme for those areas which have already been opened up for forest exploitation or which may become important to that end in the future.
2. Except for the provisions of article 24 paragraph 1, forest inventories will be carried out on behalf of the Head, thereby taking into consideration the forest-inventory programme referred to in the preceding paragraph.
3. An area in which the forest is not yet exploited, may not be opened up for this purpose as long as the inventory referred to in paragraph 2 has not been made.

Article 10

1. The Minister shall determine the division of the forest for the purposes of forest-management planning into management units. These units may include the various designations mentioned in Chapter III.
2. The Minister will determine a forest management plan for each management unit indicating the technical requirements for the rational use of the forest within that unit.
3. Irrespective of the destination of the forest by virtue of the provisions of Chapter III, no use may be made of the forest other than in accordance with the management plan referred to in paragraph 2.
4. A management plan may be reviewed every ten years or as early as the Minister deems necessary owing to the change in the felling standards or the occurrence of other important developments within the management unit.

Article 11

In so far as a management unit forms part of a permanent production forest, the management plan will also include an exploitation plan indicating the technical specifications for a sustainable harvesting of wood and/or gathering of forest by-products as referred to in Article 40, as well as rules concerning the protection of the other functions of the forest.

Article 12

1. Every management plan determines the annual allowable cut for the pertinent unit; with the understanding that the annual allowable cut for permanent production forests will be determined thereby, taking into account the sustainable (natural) production capacity of the forest on the one hand and an efficient exploitation of the forest on the other.
2. The total annual cut under concession, felling licences for the incidental harvesting of wood, sale of standing timber or otherwise, or from communal forests if the timber is to be transported out of the communal forest or used for commercial purposes, may not exceed the quota determined in the management plan for the allowable cut for that unit.

Article 13

1. In areas which are opened up for the benefit of forest exploitation, the Head shall promote the development of the main infrastructure in the form of the construction of roads opening up the forest, bridges, transshipment facilities and other facilities necessary for the harvesting of wood and forest management.
2. For the construction and maintenance of these facilities, all timber operators active in the area opened-up will be liable to pay compensation for opening-up. The tariffs, as well as the manner of collection, will be determined by the Minister – in co-operation with the Minister responsible for finances. The Ministers mentioned may determine that other users of the roads in the opened-up area should also pay compensation for opening up. The tariffs will be redetermined at least every five years.

Article 14

1. The Minister may lay down further provisions for:
 - a. the designation of certain types of wood as marketable according to established felling standards;
 - b. the determination of a minimum trunk diameter for certain kinds of trees, below which no such specimens may be cut.
 - c. the prohibition or restriction of the felling of certain species of wood.
2. The provisions referred to in paragraph 1 under b and c are, by virtue of Article 7 of this Act, not applicable to areas designated as forest to be clear cut and to forests which, as indicated in the management plan, are eligible for reforestation or forest-improvement.

Article 15

1. The Minister will be responsible for the effective protection of the forest and in particular for taking the measures required for the prevention and controlling of forest fires.
2. The Minister may restrict or prohibit access to areas where there is a danger of forest fires. He may also prohibit or restrict outdoor fires in these areas.
3. In an area where a forest fire has broken out, every person is obliged by order of the forest guard to help extinguish the fire, if and so far as the forest guard reasonable considers that there is no particular personal danger involved.
4. Every land user, every holder of an exploitation concession, timber concession or licence for the Incidental Cutting of timber, as well as every other interested party in an area where a forest fire has broken out, is obliged by order of the forest guard, to make available machines and equipment, if and so far as he considers that these can reasonably be of use in fighting the forest fire.
5. The State shall be responsible for damages suffered or yet to be suffered as a consequence of compliance with an order as referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 of this article.

2. A concession confers upon the holder the exclusive right to the wood harvested by whomsoever in the concession area, in so far as his concession is applicable to this wood.
 3. The concession also entails the right, without prejudice to the provisions of the “Construction Decree”, the “Nuisance Law” and all other relevant regulations valid in this matter, to build the necessary structures and installations, to cultivate root vegetables and tree-fruits and also to cultivate agricultural products for exclusive use at that place, by the concessionaire and/or his workers in the concession area.

2. Long-term concessions shall only be granted to integrated timber industries and medium-term concessions to sawmills with or without their own forestry operation. The granting of one of these concessions shall, without prejudice to the terms and conditions under this Act, be subject to the favourable results of the study carried out by an applicant for a concession into the potential for forest exploitation of the area in question by virtue of an exploration licence as referred to in Article 23 of this Act.

In this extension, the limits of the concession area and the terms and conditions governing the concession, may be amended in consultation with the concessionaire.
2. Extension can only take place if the concessionaire has submitted his application therefor within the period and in the form prescribed, or to be prescribed, by the Minister. If these conditions are not met, the concessionaire can only be granted a new concession for the same concession area by taking in account the relevant provisions of Article 21.

timber species or group of timber species to be harvested and transported annually by the concessionaire.

2. The minimum volume referred to in paragraph 1 may be decreased by the Minister in like proportions to the number of months for which the concessionaire does not owe any concession fee in accordance with Article 32 paragraph 3.
3. If, during a period of two years, the concessionaire transports a smaller average volume of wood than he is bound to in accordance with paragraphs 1 and 2, he will still owe the fee referred to in Article 32 paragraph 1 under b, computed over the minimum volume in accordance with the exploitation plan.
4. The competent authority which has granted the concession, can reduce the size of the acreage or declare it lapsed, if the concessionaire fails to harvest and transport the minimum volume of wood for three successive years.

Article 31

1. In so far as the terms and conditions of the concession do not otherwise provide, the concessionaire will commence the exploitation of wood within one year of the granting of the concession.
2. The concessionaire will permit Government bodies to carry out, or have third parties carry out, all works necessary for public service or of public interest, and he will also allow the wood required for those works to be harvested in the concession area against compensation for the value as standing timber, in so far as he is permitted to harvest such timber.

Article 32

1. The concessionaire will owe the following fees for the concession and the removal of wood from the concession area:
 - a. an annual concession fee per hectare of concession area;
 - b. a fee for the wood harvested in the concession area, which is to be determined separately for each timber species or group of timber species, on the basis of their value.
3. The fees as well as the method of collecting the fees mentioned in the first paragraph, shall be determined by the Minister in consultation with the Minister responsible for finances. The fees shall be revised at least every five years.
4. The Minister, upon consultation with the Minister in charge of finances, is authorised to grant the concessionaire either full or partial exemption from the concession fee payable, in the event that, due to special circumstances, it becomes impossible for the concessionaire or the Service to properly fulfil their respective obligations and duties in that area for an uninterrupted period of 4 months or more.
5. The concessionaire, for the purpose of collecting the charges, is obliged to keep a felling record as prescribed by the Minister, stating the quantities, the species and other relevant information with regard to the wood harvested in his concession area.

Article 33

1. The concessionaire shall also owe, apart from the timber royalty compensation for:
 - a. non-felled marketable trees which may be felled as described in the exploitation plan;
 - b. marketable trees or parts thereof felled but not transported;

in so far as incorporated in the woodcutting statement and at the discretion of the Head.

The forestry official may have himself accompanied or transported by other persons, animals, vehicles, instruments and/or other materials as he deems necessary for the expedient fulfillment of his duties.

In special cases, upon a written request to that end, the Minister may extend this period once only for a period not exceeding the original term.
2. Buildings and works which may be removed in accordance with the preceding paragraph and which, after the expiry or extension of this term, are still present on the concession area, will become the property of the State without the latter owing the concessionaire any compensation for them.
